A PIOUS FRAUD.

The "honorable" John Robson has so wrapped himself about with an air of sanctity that to those who pear partially know him it would apoply as though he were the one righteous man in the Ministry. And yet he is only a pious fraud—ready at any moment to villify a political opponent or misrepresent a fraud, if by so doing it will advance his own ends or injure even temporarily those he hates and fears. He must either be a canting hypocrite in things spiritual or he is ignorant of the ordinary routine business of his office. There is good reason for making this assertion.

During the meeting of the Legislature, on the 10th of February, Mr. MARTIN asked the Provincial Secretary the following question:

"Have any returns been made to this government of fees, forfeitures, or penalties imposed by Messrs. Todd and Johnston, or either of them, assuming to act as Commissioners of Police in British Columbia; if so, what are the dates and particulars of such returns?"

To which the "honorable" John replied:

"No return has been received from Mr. Todd. A return has been received from Mr. Johnston, &c."

Taking the question and answer together, the impression left on the public mind was that Mr. TODD had neglected to discharge his duty and was retaining moneys that belonged to the province. Mr. TODD, on reading the impertinent and evasive answer, wrote to Mr. MARTIN as follows:

"It is true that I sent no returns to the Provincial Secretary, because my returns were made to the Government Agent at Kamloops, and every case heard by me as Commissioner of Police or Stipendiary Magistrate, was returned to him, and all fines and fees paid in to him at Kamloops as must appear in his monthly returns to the government, the whole amount being about $700.

"Fines imposed under the Public Works Act was paid into the Dominion Government Agent at Victoria according to instructions.

"The answer of Mr. Robson to your question is likely to convey a false impression, which was perhaps what was desired.

"You will, I hope, be able to inform the Provincial Secretary where some of his revenue was derived."

Is it conceivable, when the Hon JOHN ROBSON read his reply to Mr. MARTIN, that he did not know that Mr. TODD had made his returns to the Kamloops agent? Is it possible that about $700 was paid into the Provincial treasury by Mr. TODD, and the Provincial Secretary was entirely ignorant of the circumstance? Few people will give him credit for ignorance of all the circumstances; and all who know the man intimately will say "it was only one of Honest JOHN'S malicious attempts to stab an opponent."

Mr. MARTIN'S reply to Mr. TODD'S letter was straightforward and manly, and fully exonerates him from any collusion with the Provincial Secretary. He wrote as follows:

VICTORIA, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir: Your letter of Feb. 27th just received. I think you do not exactly understand my motive in asking the Provincial Secretary the question I did; it was with no intention to reflect upon you in the performance of your duties. I was endeavoring to work up a case to strengthen the hands of the government in their dispute with the Dominion authorities. * * *

As far as I know you always performed your duty in an honorable and straightforward manner. I hope this will make it clear to you that I did not ask the question with any intention to cause a reflection to be cast on you.

With kind regards, yours faithfully,
GEO. B. MARTIN.

It would now be in order for the Provincial Secretary to explain his conduct in this matter. The public may condone a mistake made unintentionally, but a deliberate attempt to wrong another will not be forgiven or forgotten.

INLAND REVENUE.

Proposed Amendments to be Offered by Hon. Mr. Costigan.

Mr. Costigan, Minister of Inland Revenue, has given notice of the following resolution: That it is expedient to amend the Consolidated Inland Revenue Act, and the act amending the same, by providing:

1. That the provision making the duty on articles subject to excise, that is in force on the day when the monthly return is made, be repealed.

2. That the fusil oil and other refuse resulting from the distillation of spirits may be disposed of as the governor-in-council prescribes; that an abatement for shrinkage may be allowed in respect of spirits matured in ventilating tanks, and that all spirits produced in a distillery shall be warehoused.

3. That malt shall not be removed without a permit, except into the possession of a licensed distiller or brewer.

4. That the provision of paragraph 2 of section 226 of the Consolidated Inland Revenue act, 1883, respecting the duty on goods manufactured in bond, may, in the case of spirits to be used for chemical or manufacturing purposes only, be varied by the Governor-in-council; that spirits used in a bonded manufactory for the production of ether and such chemical compositions as are determined by the Governor-in-council, shall be charged with the same rate of duty as methylated spirits; that no such spirits and no methylated spirits shall be removed from a bonded manufactory, except into the possession of a person having a permit to sell or use the same, and that the Governor-in-council make regulations respecting the sale of such spirits.

4. That 200 pounds of Cavendish or other tobacco may be entered for warehouse by one entry, and that 100 pounds of such tobacco may be ex warehoused by one entry, and also that packages containing ten pounds of manufactured Canadian tobacco and over, may be removed in bond from one warehouse to another.

6. That no oleomargarine or other substitute for butter shall be manufactured except by persons duly licensed, and that the Governor-in-council may make regulations respecting such manufacture and the supervision thereof.

An Interesting Gossipy Letter---Current Topics of Much Interest

Transpiring Throughout the Kingdom, as Gleaned by the News Gatherer.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A GREAT DISCOVERY.

NOTTINGHAM, March 27.—One of the greatest discoveries of the age is the cure of hydrophobia, which has been made by the eminent French surgeon M. Pasteur. In his last report to the Academy of Science, he states that out of 350 cases of dogbite submitted to him for treatment, by inoculation with virus, only one has failed, and this only through inoculation having been delayed too long. M. Pasteur has secured the recognition of his government and is to be voted a subsidy in order to found a hospital, which will be open for patients from all parts of the world and he will be provided with a trained staff of assistants. I will give an instance of what great benefit this international hospital will be. In London the other day a mad dog after biting several persons was killed by a passing workman, who courageously seized it and cut its throat. In doing this he was, however, bitten in thirteen places. Dr. DeLacy Evans attended the man and removed the body of the dog for examination, and found it suffering from rabies. A resident at the West end offered to pay to send the man to M. Pasteur, and this offer has been accepted and Dr. Evans will accompany him.

CURE OF CONSUMPTION.

Another important discovery is the cure of consumption. It appears from experiments which have just been made in London, there is good grounds for believing that the latest Italian cure for consumption is really efficacious. The discovery of Drs. Cantani and Salama may be described as the combative germ theory. It is generally supposed by the medical profession that consumption is due to the presence in the lungs of a germ called bacillus tubercolosus. How to destroy or remove these germs has hitherto been an unsolved problem. The latest inspiration of science has presumably overcome this great difficulty.

THE COLONIAL EXHIBITION.

From what may be already seen of the Indian and Colonial exhibition it is quite evident that between next May and November there will be a repetition of the Arabian Nights (and days) at South Kensington. More of the days than nights, perhaps, for the lighting up of the gardens is to be done upon a more economical scale this year than last. Eastern magnificence will, however, atone for anything that may be lacking in western investments. The coming show promises to greatly eclipse all that has gone before, and will be a fitting winding-up of the series of exhibitions promised a few years ago.

THE TURF.

On Monday last the flat racing season began, and until the 25th of November, a week day on which a race meeting is not held will be quite an exception. The first great flat race of the season—the Lincolnshire handicap—was decided last Wednesday at Lincoln, so I journeyed down and saw the great event. Twenty-three runners were weighed out, but fully 25 minutes were wasted before the flag fell to a good start, and the mile was covered in 1 minute and 41 seconds. Fulman (20 to 1 chance) winning easily by a little over a length, while Bread Knife, the favorite, which started at 3 to 1, was second. The race was witnessed by an immense number of people, most of whom were greatly disappointed at the favorite's defeat. The value of the stakes was £1,634. It may be an interesting item of news to many to learn that is at present under engagement to ride Saraband in the Two Thousand Guineas, and the Bard in the Derby, at a retaining fee in each instance of £500, though he will be relieved of his promise supposing the animals named should not be fancied at the finish. In the event of winning the first named race he will receive a further gift of £1500, and, under similar contingencies in the Derby, his remuneration will be increased by the handsome little fortune of £2500!

THE METROPOLITAN POLICE.

Lord Dorchester said in the House of Lords this week that the Metropolitan police were exposed to great temptations in the shape of wine, women and money, but were nevertheless possessed of many admirable qualities. The latter part of the statement is somewhat inconsequential, because if a man had not some good qualities he wouldn't be fit for a policeman, or hardly anything else. The wine is rather doubtful—more likely whiskey; the women are harried—I mean those who can't afford to get the policeman to look another way; but Lord Dorchester might have added another temptation—watches. "Been in the force six months, and on night duty too, and not got a watch yet!" an indignant old hand is said to have remarked to a greenhorn.

THE GREAT EASTERN.

Occupation has at last been found for the steamship Great Eastern. Arrangements have been completed by a Liverpool firm for bringing the vessel to Liverpool, where she will anchor in the Sloyne, and be one of the objects of interest during the coming Shippers Exhibition. She will be fitted up for concerts and other entertainments, one of which is said to be a circus. It is expected she will prove a great attraction.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

The new comic opera, written by Gilbert and Sullivan, to follow "The Mikado" at the Savoy Theatre, London, is not to be put into rehearsal until September.

Among the treasures that went down in the Oregon were the score of "The Mother Light's" music and the script of "Sister Mary."

Mr. J. B. Johnstone, the old-time actor on the London stage, and the author of about 200 dramas, has just completed his 83rd year, having been born on March 19th, 1803.

Mdme. Sarah Bernhardt will, prior to embarking for America, give thirteen performances in London of her famous charters ere long.

The new one act comedy, by Mr. S. Grundy, in which Mrs. Langtry will shortly appear at the Princess Theatre, London, is to be called "Sympathetic Souls." The pair who give this title to the piece are a young widower and widow, who finding consolation in one another for past bereavement, are ultimately discovered by their amazed friends dancing a jig.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

A well informed London correspondent understands that the agents general of the British Colonies are greatly embarrassed by the number of applications which are pouring in upon them daily for assisted passages. This is in the excess of something like 300 per cent., and is attributed to the prevalent stagnation of the industrial and labor market in Great Britain.

The three Duchesses who have undertaken the duties of Mistress of the Robes are now known as "the three graces." The funny part of the arrangement is that although one Duchess cannot be found to be Mistress of the Robes under Mr. Gladstone's administration, three are willing to share the honor amongst them.

One of the pictures in the Paris Salon will represent M. Pasteur at work in his laboratory. It is estimated that the pictures sent to the Paris Salon this year would, if placed in a line, extend to seven kilometres. A minute's examination bestowed on each would take 116 hours.

Two bailiffs were attacked in the house of a tenant in Ireland this week by a large number of people, and compelled to eat all the writs in their possession.

J. H.

ON HIS DEFENCE.

Impeachment of Minister Bowell and Mr. White, of Hastings—Amusing Speech.

In the Commons, Ottawa, on the evening of the 5th inst., after Mr. J. D. Edgar had formulated his charges, impeaching Hon. Mr. Bowell and Mr. White for corrupt practices in connection with Nortwest land transactions, Mr. White, in following Mr. Bowell in his defence, took the floor and made a characteristic speech. It may not be generally known that the member for Hastings is an Irishman, who came to Canada young, but retains the fire and impetuosity of his race and has a habit of introducing absurd, irrelevant matter into his remarks, which never fails to bring down the house. He preferred that the matter should go to a special committee, as proposed by his accusers. He had done nothing against the law, nothing compromising his honor, and nothing contrary to the rules of the House. "Let us get at the whole truth. I have nothing to fear." "The document," continued Mr. White, "is very well written, and although the member for West Ontario went to British Columbia as ambassador at the cost to the country of $6000, he has not intelligence to write it. I am satisfied it was written by my dear, kind-hearted, sympathetic Irish brother Edward Blake." When the roars of laughter subsided, Mr. White, looking at the leader of the opposition, exclaimed: "Yes, dear brother, every line of it is yours."

Mr. Blake joined heartily in the laughter.

"When," resumed the speaker, "one is in trouble it is a nice thing to have the sympathy of the ladies, and in this matter I am glad to say I have the sympathy of two. One has been a partner of my life for many years, and, I am proud to say, is the mother of a large family, which is a good thing for the country." (Laughter.) Well, when she read all the scoundrelly and cowardly things published about me in the Globe, she felt much annoyed and grieved, but I said "never mind, Esther, it will be all right." (Laughter.) This assurance appears to have appeased the hon. member's better half, for he made no further reference as to the state of her feelings. Mr. White then went on to say that his other lady sympathizer was no less a person than Mrs. Edward Blake. "You will remember, Mr. Speaker," said he, turning to the chair, "we were all fellow-passengers on the ocean steamer coming home some years ago. The late member for Leeds (Mr. Jones) and I were walking the deck one bright day, trying to combat with that dread disease, sea sickness, and you will remember, Mr. Speaker, that you came up on deck and passed to the side of the ship to cast up accounts, and Mr. Jones exclaimed: 'Go it, George, there's lots of room.'"

The House broke into convulsions of laughter. Members could not see what this had to do with Mrs. Blake's sympathy for Mr. White, but they laughed until their sides were sore. The speaker alone retained his dignity. His face reddened up and he looked indignantly severe at the story-teller, anything pleasing at being reminded of the incident. When quiet was restored Mr. White explained that Mr. and Mrs. Blake were passengers on the same steamship, and that on landing Mr. Blake took a long walk in the country, leaving Mrs Blake in charge of the luggage on the dock. By and by the custom house officers came along and began pulling and tearing the luggage about, much to the distraction of Mrs. Blake, and she was only helped out of trouble by the timely arrival of himself (Mr. White). "Well, my dear, how are you getting along?" was Mr. Blake's question on his return. "Oh, it has been something dreadful," answered Mrs. B. "I do not know what I would have done but for Mr. White." [Great laughter.] "So you see," continued the hon. gentleman, "I have the sympathy of two ladies, my own partner and the wife of the hon. opposition leader. [Cheers.] Getting back to the subject of the discussion, Mr. White said what he had done was according to the law and the chaps who brought these charges would find before they got through with John White that they had woke up the wrong passenger. [Cheers and laughter.]

R. will be connected with Louisburg on the Atlantic.

The All-Absorbing Topic

IRELAND'S HOME RULE.

Discussion Continued in the Commons by Harcourt, Goschen and Gladstone.

First Reading of the Bill Carried amidst Tremendous Cheering and Enthusiasm.

SIR WM. VERNON HARCOURT.

LONDON, April 13.—Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer to-night resumed the debate on the Irish bill in the House of Commons. He began by saying that those who condemned the government's measure failed to state an acceptable alternative scheme. Nobody accepted Mr. Trevelyan's plan. Mr. Chamberlain's project was in turn repudiated by Lord Hartington, and Mr. Trevelyan and Mr. Chamberlain have propounded a scheme of great importance; but that scheme had never been submitted to the government. He, Mr. Chamberlain, has recommended federation. What were to be those separate bodies in Great Britain and Ireland which were to be the subject matter of the federation recommendation. Mr. Chamberlain had a plan to stay evictions by act of Parliament. Who was agreed upon that policy? Had he got the adhesion of Lord Hartington; had he got the adhesion of Mr. Goschen, or the adhesion of the Right Honorable gentleman and noble Lord opposite? If he had not, the speaker would like to know how it is that if was a practical policy? Lord Hartington had said he did not admit the impossibility of governing Ireland by a mingled system of remedial and repressive legislation. It was to the administration of Lord Spencer that he thought the government of Ireland ought to be restored. It has been stated by Lord Hartington that whatever the fate of this measure was, the more introduction of it by a responsible government would do much that could never be recalled. That was perfectly true; but it was equally true of the events of last June. The consequences of those events could never be received. Those events entirely changed the whole aspect of the British question. The course then taken made home rule inevitable. (Cries of Oh! Oh! and laughter.) The speaker taunted the opponents of the measure with having no basis for an agreement on the Irish policy. Did Mr. Goschen, he asked, approve of Mr. Chamberlain's plan for a central council at Dublin, or the suspension of evictions? Had the Conservative leaders any policy except a condemnation of Mr. Gladstone's scheme?

Lord Randolph Churchill—Yes, they are against repeal in any shape or form. (Cheers.)

The speaker retorted that that might mean as much as Lord Beaconsfield's denunciation of the five pound franchise at the very moment when he designed to carry through the household suffrage measure. (Laughter.) Continuing he said the fact was that there was of the government, except the severest coercion. This would require a strong government; a government determined and persistent in harmony with itself, supported by an overwhelming majority in parliament and in the country. Such a government had been dreamed of as resulting from a truce of party spirit and end to party warfare; but it was not by the breaking up of parties that a strong government could be formed. Reference, continued the speaker, has been made to the Irish in America. This House cannot, for a moment, be influenced by the actions of dastardly assassins like Ford and others; but the Irish nation in America is as numerous as the Irish are at home. These have not been parties to the actions of assassins. These actions of assassins receive condemnation from people of the United States. (Irish and Liberal cheers.) But if you reject this bill do you believe and are you sure there will not be sympathy with those assassins, and with their schemes? (Hisses and cries of Oh, Oh.) I believe there will be a universal condemnation and disapprobation from all right thinking people—Irish and American—of such a treatment of Irish people. (Irish cheers.)

RIGHT HON. MR. GOSCHEN.

In the course of an energetic speech Mr. Goschen contended that there was no analogy between the opposition of Ireland and England, and that of Norway, or Sweden, or Austria and Hungary. The Irish and English interests, he said, were so interlaced that when they came to the finance question they would find it difficult to decide whether the income to be taxed was English or Irish. These interests could not be disassociated. In conclusion he, Goschen, denied that firmness could be called coercion, and said there would be no repression if there was no crime. The responsibility of weakening the ties which unite the British with Ireland rested with the premier, and his followers. Those resisting the break up of the empire must close up their ranks, and stand shoulder to shoulder to resist the bill. (Enthusiastic cheers.)

GLADSTONE AGAIN SPEAKS.

Gladstone replied at considerable length. He denied that the safeguards provided in the bill were dictated by a distrust of the Irish people. On the contrary they were insulted, in consequence of the mistrust that was felt by others. Gladstone argued that the fundamental fear of those who attack the home rule measure was that the Irish people would necessarily do wrong; that the administration of the country would necessarily be changed. (Cries of hear, hear.) In regard to questions as to the power of veto by the bill, he stated that there was no limitation to that proposition, and in reference to the income tax that would necessarily be as separate in Ireland as it would be in England. Of the bill generally, it proposed to give to the Irish people reasonable satisfaction to their demand, without imitating the example set by a former government in the case of America. He ridiculed the fear that had been expressed as to the further demands on the part of the Irish members, if this bill were passed. As to the question of their having no mandate for this measure he contended that inasmuch as there had been no mandate for coercion, or for maintaining law, so no mandate was necessary for the proposals to strengthen means of maintaining law. He compared criticism on the bill, and pointed out that no one speech agreed with another. Speaking of the measure as a plan he remarked that it might be improved; but at any rate it held the field, as did also the subject. (Loud cheers.)

The motion that leave be given to introduce the bill was put by the Speaker and agreed to without division, amid protracted and enthusiastic cheering.

SHOOTS HIMSELF.

Earl Shaftesbury Commits Suicide in Regent Street.

LONDON, April 13.—Earl Shaftesbury killed himself this p. m. He was in a cab riding through Regent street when he took his life. He drew a revolver and discharged the contents of its several chambers into his person. The corpse was conveyed to the Middlesex Hospital. The suicide was 54 years of age. He was the eighth Earl Shaftesbury, succeeding on October last to the title on the death of his father who was a noted philanthropist; he leaves a widow, Lady Harriet, daughter of the 3rd Marquis of Donegal, and one son and five daughters. The Earl had latterly been unwell and complained of mental depression.

LATER PARTICULARS.

Lord Shaftesbury fired the first shot at his right temple, but missed his aim. The cabman descended from his seat and refused to proceed further, as he feared he would be shot. Lord Shaftesbury tried to pursuade him to continue the drive and offered him a five pound note, but the cabman was immovable. A constable who had heard the shot fired, approached the cab. At this moment, when Lord Shaftesbury fired again, the ball taking effect in the temple. The constable seeing that he was about to fire tried to seize his arm, but failed. Lord Shaftesbury was then driven in haste to the hospital. He did not speak after the shooting, and died in ten minutes after his arrival.

THE PRUSSIAN LANDTAG.

BERLIN, April 13.—The Upper House of the Prussian Landtag, has accepted the Ecclesiastical bill, with amendments, offered by Dr. Kopp, Bishop of Fulda.

PARLIAMENTARY.

Sir John Macdonald's Health--The Franchise Bill--An M. P. on his Muscle.

In the Commons, on the 7th inst., after routine, Sir Hector Langevin read a letter received from Dr. Powell to-day stating Sir John's physical condition to be remarkably good, and, although his local symptoms have been rather obstinate, they are now undergoing a rapid change for the better.

Mr. Charlton's Act to punish seduction and like offences, and make further provision for the protection of women and girls, was, after discussion, referred to a select committee.

Dr. Orton's proposed resolutions granting charters to farm and real estate banks were further discussed in committee of the whole.

The committee on privileges and elections took up to-day the charges preferred by Mr. Edgar against John White and the Minister of Customs. Mr. Edgar submitted a list of witnesses. M. A. M. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Interior, was named as the first witness to be examined.

On April 2nd a paragraph appeared in the Globe, insinuating that Dr. Orton had been drunk in the House. To-night Orton, meeting Mr. E. W. Thompson, Globe representative, in the lobby, accused him of writing the paragraph, and suddenly struck him a severe blow in the face. A fight ensued, in which both got bloody noses before they were separated.

Hon. Mr. Thompson, replying to Sir Richard Cartwright, said the government would very likely offer some amendments to the Franchise Bill during the present session.

The Minister of the Interior introduced a bill further amending the Dominion Lands Act last Monday.

The Beaty-Woodworth scandal was further ventilated in the railway committee this morning. The correspondence between Woodworth and the Minister of Finance was read by Woodworth. A letter entrusted to McLellan by Woodworth could not be found. Sir Hector read a telegram from the Manitoba Legislature, asking that fifty miles be built this year, and if necessary that the company be incorporated without delay. The committee agreed to postpone the bill for two weeks to enable Beaty to show his ability to build the road. Langevin explained that the postponement would have nothing to do with the government's action as to whether they were for or against the measure. They would reserve their action.

Replying to Mr. Ives, Mr. White said the Rocky Mountain rangers would all get scrip.

In reply to Sir Richard Cartwright's enquiry if the government was aware that the Canadian Pacific Railway had sold a large quantity of land south of the railway, Hon. Mr. White said the Canadian Pacific could make any disposition they pleased of lands as they earned them and were not obliged to report sales to the government.

Mr. Casey moved for all correspondence between the Militia department and volunteer officers in reference to the character of the ammunition made at the Quebec cartridge factory. He was informed that the ammunition supplied to the troops in the Northwest was defective.

Mr. Caron said that some of the ammunition supplied was inferior and an investigation had been ordered. That supplied to the troops during the rebellion was good, as reported by the officers on service.

IN THE SENATE

Mr. Power moved for instructions to commissioners appointed to enquire into losses sustained in the rebellion. He thought the losers should be only paid in part and cited the Hudson Bay Company which received nearly a million dollars which should amply repay it for any buildings destroyed.

Senator Campbell held that it was not within the province of the Dominion.

Senator Girard thought the company entituled to compensation.

Cameron of Lochiel, the Scotch Chieftan, writes to the London Times: "Not one condemns the whole proceedings of Mr. Winans more than the proprietors in the Highlands, who, indeed, have good reason to lament the day when he arrived among them." Mr. Winans has the right to regard himself as the best-hated American on record in Great Britain.

THE GREAT WORK.

The return of M. LESSEPS and his party to France from a visit of inspection to the Panama Canal, and the favorable report made as to the progress of the work, has again increased the interest taken everywhere in this great engineering work. It is now asserted that the work will be completed within the next three or four years. In a work of such gigantic magnitude there cannot of course be any very certain calculation made as to the exact time when it will be ready for traffic. But M. LESSEPS' skill, energy, and past experience make it reasonable to suppose that the term he has fixed upon will not be very wide of the mark. However, above all mere calculations as to the time of completion is the strong, settled conviction of such a man as LESSEPS as to the work being not only practicable, but as to its progressing so successfully towards the desired result, that a very short term of years at farthest can be reckoned on as sufficient to witness the union of the two oceans across the Isthmus of Panama. Sceptics on this subject ought to remember that the distrust about the completion of the Suez Canal was far greater, and the jubilant contempt of the unbelievers far more marked and uproarious. The English people, with Lord PALMERSTON at their head, were all but a unit in denouncing the whole project as the dream of a foolish and self-sufficient Frenchman. The irresistible logic of facts, however, has long ago settled which side had the best reason for being confident over the position taken and the hopes entertained.

The Suez Canal has long ago been an accomplished fact in spite of all demonstrations of its impossibility. The Suez Canal has to a very large extent revolutionized the commerce of the East, and the British, who were most confident that it was impracticable, have now for years taken all but the whole of the advantage of its facilities and of the profit arising from its constructions. It may be the same thing with the Panama great water-way, only its importance and far-reaching influences will be still greater. It is to be hoped that all parties concerned will be so wise in their International arrangements, and so reasonable and moderate in their individual demands, as to permit this gigantic undertaking to become a blessing to all and an injury to none.

The trouble with the International Conventions as to the neutralization of any particular localities is that when war actually breaks out such Conventions are liable to be treated as not worth the parchment on which they are written. Of course it will be settled that no ships of war or munitions shall be allowed to pass through the canal for the benefit of States between which war has been actually proclaimed. To have such arrangement respected, however, will be the difficulty. In any case, if Great Britain and the United States are agreed on the subject there will be little or no difficulty; and we should be sorry to think that there is either so much short-sighted selfishness or so little genuine and far-sighted statesmanship in the leaders and peoples of those two great countries as to render what ought to be a universal blessing a bone of contention and little better than a gigantic curse.

The Victorians (Australia) have a very sharp way of dealing with the cheap labor difficulty. No vessel is allowed to bring to port more than one John Chinaman for every hundred tons of its size. Consequently a ship of fourteen hundred tons would only be allowed to carry fourteen of the heathen ones. We have just seen in a file of Victorian papers that a vessel of that size was found to have fifty Chinamen on board, and the captain was mulcted in a penalty of $500. Every Chinaman coming to Victoria has to take out papers of naturalization and pay a poll tax. But the cute Celestials post their naturalization papers to their friends in China, who come over with them, and thus escape the tax.

At a recent meeting in Chelsea, London, for a charitable object, much embarrassment was caused by the refusal of ladies to act with Lady Dilke.

THE GAME OF BLUFF.

The New York Sun is of the opinion that the action of the Dominion government in forbidding the sale of bait and ice to American fishermen is but a little game of bluff. It states that "Captain Scott patrols the three-mile limit ready to pounce upon any enterprising Canucks who may try to utter the forbidden articles of commerce. Certain Nova Scotian patriots have spiritedly resolved to bite off their own blue noses rather than deal with the Yankee fishers. Possibly the patriotism of Nova Scotia will cease to boil over when the fact that a policy of bluster cannot breathe life into the dry bones of the joint commission scheme is thoroughly grasped by the cerulean-nasal mind. If the Dominion authorities persist in their refusal to allow the sale of bait to the American fishermen, the Administration should call the attention of the British government to the fact. Bait and ice are simply articles of commerce, the right to buy which does not depend upon treaty. It is fifty-six years since, after a long course of discriminatory and retaliatory legislation, the direct trade between the United States and the British West Indian and North American colonies was thrown open. This was done by proclamation, in accordance with legislation by Congress and by Parliament. The commercial rights of the United States in British North American ports have nothing to do with the treaty of 1818. In fact, at the time that treaty was made we did not have the right to trade with those ports. The United States do have that right now. On certain articles of trade, as ice and bait, the Dominion government puts a prohibition. It rests in the hands of Congress to return, if it chooses, to the old policy of retaliation, but probably that will be found unnecessary. Doubtless the British government would hold that the prohibition of the sale of bait to Americans is against imperial policy. If the present activity of the Dominion authorities continues, their case should be laid before the home government, which would propably find it to its interest to sit down upon them gently but firmly. If not, the remedy rests with Congress. Meanwhile our enthusiastic friends across the northern frontier should not hug to their souls the delusion that anything they can do will force or lure this country into taking chances in another commission lottery."

These views of our New York contemporary on the question it is evident from the action taken by Con this week in the matter, are likewise those entertained by a considerable number in that body. A crisis in the question is approaching which demands an adjustment of the subject by the two nations interested in the fishing grounds. Otherwise a conflict is certain to take place, which may result in very serious complications, in which two powerful nations will be involved.

SOCIALISTIC THIEVERY.

The Charleroi correspondent of the New York Herald day after day cabled full accounts of the Belgian riots, misnamed "labor emeutes," which in reality were brigandish, socialistic thievery. It has been no question of strikes with which the military have had to deal, or have to now. It was an orgie, an anarchist saturnalia, with pillage, fire and industrial ruin. Vindicating the rights of labo was a monstrous pretence. The basin of Charleroi has been swept as by a moral pestilence. From Liege to Mons, the great industrial centre of the country has been given up to a revolution of crime. Its mines, iron foundries, glassworks, factories and residences of their owners have been destroyed, and all its wealth of capital has been scattered to the winds. The stories with which the press has been filled day by day are those incident to times of war rather than of peace. One must go back to the days of the Commune for any approach to a parallel with the reckless violence which has laid waste the great works that were the glory of the industrial enterprise of Belgium. It would have entailed fearful loss to have enforced simply a reign of idleness throughout these districts; but what has been done is far more d s strous—the insanity of idleness passed into the madness of delusion. The cry of "No more work!" drove willing workpeople into the streets. Workshops and factories, with all their costly machinery and stores of finished work or work in progress, have been wrecked and their contents have been given up to fire and robbery. "No more work," it is to be feared, will become something more than the delusion of men drunk with the frenzy of success. The end is not even yet. The military and these masses of misguided workmen are facing each other at every point. Blood has been shed in the maintenance of order, and unless submission follows speedly more will be shed or the country will pass into the stage of active revolution. In such a struggle the workers have everything to lose, and no job can forsee their immediate future without misgiving. You may distrust all reports of the rioters being pacified. They have killed the golden goose of capital, and the reaction is likely to lead to desperation.

Gaiteau's sister and her husband are both ruined by the division he brought about between them. Mrs. Scoville is living in poverty in Chicago upon the frugal alimony paid her by her former husband, while the latter is struggling unsuccessfully in his profession, and making barely enough to pay her this alimony and live himself.

Mrs. Langtry has introduced a new dodge into the commemoration of a fiftieth performance by distributing her photograph.

A Safeguard.

The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently develop into the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs, is a consideration which should impel every prudent person to keep at hand, as a household remedy, a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Nothing else gives such immediate relief and works so sure a cure in all the varieties of this case. This eminent physician, Prof. F. Sweetzer, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—

"Medical science has produced no other remedy expectorant so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is invaluable for diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the well-known Dr. L. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says:—

"I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any preparation of so great value as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs. It not only relieves up to and cures severe coughs, but is more effective than anything else in relieving even the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new claimant for popular confidence, but a medicine which is to-day saving the lives of the third generation who have come into being since it was first offered to the public.

There is not a household in which this invaluable remedy has once been introduced where its use has ever been abandoned, and there is not a person who has ever given it a proper trial for any throat or lung disease susceptible of cure, who has not been made well by it.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless instances, cured obstinate cases of chronic Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and even acute Pneumonia, and has saved many patients in the earlier stages of Pulmonary Consumption. It is a medicine that only requires to be taken in small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is needed in every house where there are children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of Croup and Whooping Cough.

These are all plain facts, which can be verified by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody.

AN ACTOR'S TRANSFORMATION.

The Hard but Not Impossible Job of Making Himself Look Like Modjeska.

One of the adepts in the transformation of a face for theatric purposes is an actor so inconspicuous that you probably do not recall him by name. He had the part of a sneaking, slouching spy in a melodrama the other week, and his presentation of a thoroughly disreputable and slimy fellow was remarkable. It occurred to me that I had once seen him as the twin brother of "Viola" in "Twelfth Night," whence his resemblance to the dainty Madame Modjeska was a feature of the entertainment. It was hard to believe that the two figures had the same man for a basis. So I sought out the actor, and got him to say:

"The job of making myself look like Madjeska was hard, but far from impossible. I have what might be called a negative face. What I mean is that my features are conventional—no one of them being striking. That is the prime requisite. Henry Irving, for example, couldn't make up his face to look like me, but I can easily produce a perfect likeness of him. In the first place, it can readily be imagined that Modjeska did nothing on her side to resemble me. She was concerned to look her prettiest, of course, and so the task was all put on me. I began by supplying myself with photographs giving her profile from all sides. Guided by these, I studied out the outlines and imitated them, partly by painting, chiefly by sticking wax on. My nose was built up to the shape of hers, though several sizes bigger. Then I got a wig that was a counterpart of the one she wore, and the duplication of some parts of her costume completed the job. Every evening before going on the stage I repaired to her room to compare myself with her and to make any alterations that seemed necessary.

"But you have forgotten that I also played twin to Adelaide Neilson. The process was substantially the same and the result more successful, because she had a dashing, manish manner in her assumption of masculinity, and it was a fact that, before I spoke my first scene, the audience, unfamiliar with the entrances and exits of the play did not recognize me. Miss Neilson had a keen sense of fun, and she seldom failed to put her eye to a peep-hole to watch the people when they discerned the counterfeit. That was her nightly diversion while playing 'Twelfth night.'"—"Durandal" in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Immense Quantities of Cheap Jewelry.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor, who on dress occasions wears diamonds that cost nearly $300,000, would no doubt smile at the cheap jewelry which adorns so many of her sex, but after all how small is the difference? Perhaps, indeed, the house maid or sewing girl is just as happy with a 50-cent brooch as Mrs. Astor is with her more costly gauds. The love of jewelry seems universal, and hence the poor must be accommodated in a manner adapted to low pay and other privations. For many years immense quantities of cheap jewelry were manufactured in New England, but as everything centers in New York, this trade proved no exception, and while Tiffany has been dealing out diamonds to the rich, Faas & Co. have been manufacturing ornaments for the million. This concern has been in operation for more than forty years with great success, and has recently opened a factory specially for bracelets and ear rings.

"At one time rolled gold was extensively used, the metal being reduced to the thinness almost of tissue paper, but at present "plating" is preferred. Red gold, which is now the principal material, is an alloy of gold and copper, the latter being preferable to silver for the purpose, as it makes a richer color. Plating is done by the use of an electric battery, and one ounce of gold applied in this manner will plate 150 pairs of bracelets. Mrs. Astor and others of the creme de la creme might shudder at the thought of using a pair of these bracelets, and yet what multitudes of their sex are happy to be thus adorned!—New York Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

Possible Future of the Metropolis.

It will take a couple of years probably to complete the work at Hell Gate, but when it is done, ships from Europe will save forty miles of travel by using the sound route. It is not impossible that in fifty years' time New York city will be, as it were, turned about. Instead of coming up the harbor, the ships from abroad will take the Sound route, and the docks and warehouses of the greatest American city will be located on both shores of the Harlem river, and on the Long island shore opposite. A careful survey by naval experts has established the fact, that the three channels between Coney Island and Sandy Hook, one of which every ship has to take in its passage in and out of New York harbor, are rapidly shoaling. To dredge and improve them properly would cost an outlay of $25,000,000. If the Sound passage will accommodate all the shipping without trouble, it is not likely that congress will spend so much money in improving the lower bay.—Demorest's Monthly.

A Rose-Perfumed Insect of Mexico.

Next morning while breakfasting upon the trunk of a fallen tree, our attention was attracted by a strong smell of roses, though not a rose was in sight. Was the miracle of Tepeyacac, where the virgin of Guadalupe gave roses to Jean Diego, about to be re-enacted? Diligent search revealed, under the bark of the log upon which we sat, several of those sky-blue insects with scarlet feet whose name I have forgotten, but with whose habits naturalists are familiar. They are most common in the sandy soil of the coast, and are used by Mexican ladies to perfume their linen, as our grandmothers used thyme and lavender.—Jalapa Cor. New York Sun.

The Art of Writing Fully Explained.

No need to send a stamp for the information. The art of writing is explained by a learned man in five lines: "The secret of force in writing lies not so much in the pedigree of nouns and adjectives and verbs, as in having something that you believe in to say, and making the parts of speech vividly conscious of it." Yes, yes. This reminds us of the Irishman who wrote to his friend that all he had to do was to carry up the brick—"the man at the top of the ladder did all the work."—Pittsburg Telegraph.

A RARE CHANCE.

To-morrow (Thursday) at noon, in their salesrooms, Wharf street, Messrs. J. P. Davies & Co. will offer for sale by auction a couple of well built, hard-finished cottages, in the sub-division of the old Caledonia picnic grounds, Cook street. The cottages front on Chatham street, which has been opened up and graded through this very desirable property. The cottages are rented for $10 per month each. The locality is one of the most charming spots in the city. The cottages are constructed in the most substantial, durable manner. Such as are in want of a comfortable home should examine these properties. The ground is free from rock or boulders and admirably adapted for ornamental gardening purposes. It is seldom that such an opportunity to buy property on so easy terms of payment occurs, and advantage should be taken of this rare chance.

—An alarm of fire was sounded this morning about a quarter past eight, to which the fire department responded with alacrity. PUBLIC ROBBERY.

The railway charges, under Onderdonk's management, continue so excessive that they can only be described as highway robbery. A gentleman to-day paid $65 per ton freight on general merchandise for a distance of about 170 miles from Port Hammond. Merchants in the interior intend going back to bullock trains this summer if no other redress can be procured.

THE VANCOUVER REGIRA.

The Evangel left Yesler's wharf yesterday morning, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer of the 13th, for the Canadian Pacific terminus, taking forty-two passengers and a full freight. Among her passengers were J. H. Carlisle, the teamster, who took his truck and horses with him; L. Diller, who expects to start a confectionery store or a small sawmill at the new city; George McGinnis, who goes to see about introducing his celebrated brand of sodawater and apollinaris at Coal Harbor; Ned Culbrie, who wants a job driving piles for the much talked of immense wharves, and Mr. Sweeney who expects to quench the thirst of the town boomers this summer with beer from his brewery at the head of the bay.

LIEUT.-GOVERNORSHIP.

A Report that the Position has been Awarded to Senator Macdonald.

This morning the report was freely circulated that Senator Macdonald had been appointed Lieut.-Governor of British Columbia as successor to His Honor Lieut.-Governor Cornwall, whose term of office expires on the 1st of July. The rumor is very generally believed to be correct, much to the satisfaction of the hon. gentleman's many friends, who are exceedingly jubilant over the appointment.

A REMINISCENCE.

Loss of the Labouchere Twenty Years Ago To-day.

"Just twenty years ago to-day," said Mr. Frank Sylvester, of this city, to a TIMES representative, "the steamer Labouchere, en route to Victoria, was lost near San Francisco." Our scribe asked for particulars which were cheerfully furnished: "On the 14th of April, 1886," said Mr. Sylvester, "which is just twenty years ago to-day, the staunch steamer Labouchere, 900 tons register, owned by the Hudson Bay Company, and commanded by Capt. Mouatt, steamed out of the Golden Gate and turned her prow to Victoria. The steamer was an opposition boat to the San Francisco vessel, and just been overhauled and repaired, and was subsidized by the Colonial government to carry the mails. She had on board, besides the crew, about one hundred passengers. Everything went well until half past ten o'clock in the evening, when, at full speed, she struck a reef near Point El Reyes, about forty miles north of San Francisco. The accident afterwards was shown to have been caused by a deviation of the compass, but at the time it was unaccountable to all on board. Owing to her staunch build—having been constructed of Siam teak and Battic oak—the Labouchere floated until 5 o'clock the following morning, when she went down. The passengers and crew, with the exception of three who were drowned by the capsizing of a boat, managed to reach the shore and were saved. Of those on board the ill-fated vessel, the great majority have since crossed to the other side of the great divide, and among the survivors there are only five in Victoria: Edward Dickenson, with the C. P. N. Co., Mr. Elliott, proprietor of the Willows, Mr. Scott, steward with the C. P. N. Co., Charles Warren, purser, and Frank Sylvester. The loss of the Labouchere was a great blow to the colony at that time, as the competition from which so much was expected was for the time at an end. This is an incident in the history of our province, that will recall "memories of other days" to many of your readers, and for that purpose you can dress it up and give it space in your columns."

VERY FAIR RATES.

Says the Oregonian of the 13th: The season rates made by the North Pacific and O. R. & N. companies on wool, hides and hops in compressed bales, and on salmon in cases or barrels, and on fish oil in barrels, are regarded by those engaged in the industries which these products represent, as very fair. The rates of sixty cents per hundred from Portland, Tacoma Seattle and Astoria to Minneapolis and St. Paul, and of sixty-five cents per hundred to Chicago and St. Louis, must certainly dismiss the charge that transportation rates leave no margin to producers in these lines.

FOR EUROPE.

By the Sound steamer to-day a party of Nanaimoites left for a trip to Europe. They purchased their passage tickets from Victoria to Liverpool through Messrs. Hall & Goepel, of this city. The party was composed of Miss Gilbert, Mrs. Crossen and child, Messrs. Thomas Wall, Robert Hall, Thomas Perry, Robert Brown, J. W. Stirtan and James Gartly. The route to New York is via Northern Pacific to St. Paul; thence by the Rock Island line to Chicago, where the Pittsburg route to the metropolis will be taken. They sail by the Etruria on Saturday 24th inst. We wish them bon voyage.

EAST OF MOUNTAINS.

Reports from Silver City are to the effect that there is two feet and a half of snow in that part of the pass, and that the few miners there are waiting till the snow goes to resume work. There is no talk yet of the Healy mine resuming. John Healy is at the Banff Springs, and O. G. Dennis is still at Silver City. One or two more claims have been applied for, there being strong faith still amongst the believers in that side of the mountains.

MR. VROOMAN'S LECTURE.

Those who were present last evening at Philharmonic Hall—and we are pleased to be able to state that there was a fair-sized audience in attendance—were not disappointed. The lecture throughout was deeply interesting and contained a vast amount of information new and strange to most of those who heard it. During its delivery the appreciation of the audience was frequently manifested and at its conclusion a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered the talented young lecturer. Mayor Fell presided with his usual ability.

800 MEN COMING.

A Winnipeg dispatch announces that Messrs. Brothers & Brothers, acting for Mr. McDonald, of the C. P. R., have left that city for this province to complete the line and make the track ready for traffic at the earliest possible date. The majority of the men belong to the city of Winnipeg.

HYMEN'S ALTAR.

This morning at 6:30 at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Mr. Edward A. McQuade was united in marriage with Miss Mary Petrie. A large circle of friends wish the happy couple prosperity and happiness over the sea of life.

HOT X BUNS!

For Hot X Buns on Good Friday leave your order at the New England Bakery, Government street, to be delivered to all parts of the city. Fresh Bread, Cakes and Pies daily. YOUNG BROS.

The Morrison Tariff bill, not a few of whose provisions are of immediate interest to the people of Canada has been advanced a step towards becoming law. Its main provisions, those in regard to the free list, in their entirety, have been incorporated with the Hewitt bill on the same subject, and have been virtually adopted by the ways and means committee of the House of Representatives. It has the most dangerous stage yet to pass, however, and it is yet questionable whether its friends will be able to carry it through. There is an uncertain number of Democrats that may follow the lead of Mr. Randall and vote with the Republicans in the division to defeat it. It is on the strength this section is able to gather to itself that the issue depends, and it is evident, from the tone of the United States press, that no very high hopes are entertained by even the warmest friends of the measure.

THE ISLAND RAILWAY.

A Bill Respecting the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway Discussed in the Commons.

In the House of Commons, Ottawa, on the 6th inst., Hon. Mr. Pope moved the second reading of the bill respecting the railway from Esquimalt to Nanaimo. He explained that the company had constructed a portion of the work with very much sharper curves than were allowed in the agreement between the government and the company. The government engineer had reported that he considered this had been done in good faith under a misapprehension, and that the road was a substantial one. The bill, therefore, proposed that the Governor-General in Council might, with the assent of the Legislature of British Columbia, accept curves of not less than 573 feet radius. He had asked the government of British Columbia to adopt concurrent legislation and an order-in-Council had been adopted to that end. He had learned by telegram that the Legislature of British Columbia had given its assent by resolution.

Mr. Blake said he was not prepared to say that the government was wholly wrong in proposing this measure of relief, but he did not see how the company could possibly have misunderstood the terms of the agreement. The contract provided that the curves should not have less than a specified radius, and should not be sharper than those used on the C. P. R. in British Columbia. Now, whatever the company might presume from the sharpness of the curves which the C. P. R. had been allowed to use in British Columbia, there could be no mistaking the positive stipulation as to the length of radius.

Mr. Charlton said that this company, which was largely composed of American railway magnates, had obtained a large subsidy, and he did not think the terms should be relaxed. He pointed out that among the seven men named as the formers of the company were Leland Stanford, C. P. Huntington, American Railway magnates, and five of the seven of these corporators were Americans. The railway was necessary, no doubt, but the subsidy was larger than the people should be called upon to pay, and these men should be compelled to carry out their contracts.

Mr. Baker (Victoria) said three-fifths of the stock was held by Dunsmuir & Son, who were British Columbians.

Mr. Cook—That's a monopoly.

Mr. Shakespeare said the company was not composed exclusively of American capitalists. The stock was chiefly held by residents in the province. The specifications, he believed, had been departed from in order to obtain a better road, and when it was in full working order he believed there would not be a better railway in the Dominion. It would be of vast benefit to the settlers in the district through which it ran.

The bill was read a second time and passed through committee.

WINNIPEG'S LESSON.

A Warning to Real Estate Boomers in this Province—Property Finding its True Level in Value.

The Winnipeg papers announce that Mr. Geo. Clements has purchased 25 feet frontage on Main street, opposite the City Hall, at $300 per foot frontage. During the "boom" bubble of 1881-2 $700 per foot frontage was offered for this same property and refused. Property, like water, will find its true level no matter how great the effort made to inflate it. In this paragraph we find a salutary warning to people on this coast who are asking for properties the value of which is extremely problematical figures that are not at all warranted by circumstances. Winnipeg to-day has the brighter prospect of becoming the greatest city in the Dominion. Already it has a population of between 25,000 and 30,000, and increasing a healthy ratio. Yet we find on this coast that prices are asked for properties in embryo cities, where business centers are not yet established, approaching $100 a foot. A timely warning is thus given in the experience of Winnipeg, which is but the experience of every "boom" town, city or hamlet everywhere.

SUPREME COURT.

Geo. Blackall, against Alexander Phillips. This was an application by the plaintiff to restrain the defendant from dealing with the Albion Saloon, claimed to have been purchased from the plaintiff by Phillips. His Lordship after hearing argument and evidence, decided that no injunction was necessary, as an entry of a lis pendens would sufficiently protect the plaintiff, and ordered that the defendant should pay the alleged balance of the purchase money, viz., $975, into court to abide the order of a judge.

Mr. J. P. Walls for plaintiff; Mr. C. E. Pooley for defendant.

By lack of open air exercise, and the want of sufficient care in the matter of diet, the whole physical mechanism often becomes impaired during the winter. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the proper remedy to take in the spring of the year to purify the blood, invigorate the system, excite the liver to action, and restore the healthy tone and vigor.

SCHOOL BOARD.

The regular monthly meeting of the School Board was held last evening. Present: Chairman Harris and Messrs. Hayward, McMicking, Braden, Higgins and Heisterman.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Secretary reported that he had received from Mr. E. C. Baker, M. P., a copy of a manual on school architecture and hygiene.

From Miss Armstrong, enclosing $2 for two panes of glass and asking for two blinds. The Secretary was authorized to procure the blinds and have the chalk rubbers in the school covered.

The Secretary reported that he had received a letter from Mr. Muir, recommending that the schools be dismissed at 3 p. m. instead of 3:30 and no recess. The opinion of the board was adverse to the recommendation and the letter was, on motion, received and filed.

Mr. Braden reported that the children were practising the fire drill and were learning it rapidly. At a trial lately the school was vacated in two minutes.

The secretary reported the average daily attendance for the month as 834.75, showing a decrease as compared with last month of .13, which gave an average to each teacher of 46.37.

An account was presented from J. Weiler, $31.37, which was ordered to be paid if found correct.

HOME LESSONS.

Mr. Hayward asked for the appointment of a committee of two to confer with the principals in regard to the home lessons. He thought that the lessons given to the children were altogether too difficult and imposed too severe a strain on the youthful minds. He moved to that effect and the chairman appointed Messrs. Hayward and Heisterman.

A COMPLAINT.

Mr. Higgins said that Mr. Pierce was complaining that the school children were in the habit of scaling the neighboring fences during the recesses and trespassing on his grounds, picking wild flowers, etc. The gates were left open and the fences were pulled down. Referred to the last named committee.

FIRE BRIGADE.

Mr. McMicking said that complaints were made by the parents that the fire drill was going too far and occupying too much time. All that was intended was to drill the scholars to vacate the schools in order and as quickly as possible, but it seems as though a regular fire company was being organized.

Mr. Braden explained the working of the new drill—which included teaching the older boys to save the younger in the event of the latter falling down, etc.

The board then adjourned.
